Radwa Ahmed Abdelghaffar Mahmoud

Egyptian, Female

Elsheikh Zayed city, Giza, Egypt

E-mail: Radwaabdelghaffar@feps.edu.eg

Career Objective:

Assistant professor of economics, Faculty of Economics and Political Science (FEPS), Cairo University (CU).

Personal Profile:

• University economics assistant professor with strong academic and teaching background with an excellent track record of supporting and encouraging students to achieve their true potential.

• Nearly 13 years' significant experience demonstrating research doing, teaching and fostering students' critical skills leading to improve performance.

• Proficient with English and Arabic, very good in French language.

• Involved in workshops and courses that enhance skills of teaching, presentations' giving, research doing and publication, and managing time.

Education:

• Bachelor of Economics in 2011, Excellent with honour grade, FEPS, CU.

• Relevant Modules: Economics major, and minor of Political Science.

• 2012-2015: enrolled in the Masters program in Economics at FEPS, CU.

• 2016-2023: enrolled in the PhD program in Economics at FEPS, CU.

Achievements:

• Masters degree, FEPS, CU, in the field of macroeconomics. Title of the thesis: Measuring Central Bank Response to Exchange Rate Movements under Alternative Policy Rule Specifications: The Case of Egypt.

• PhD degree, FEPS, CU, in the field of financial economics. Title of the thesis: The Relation between Financial Inclusion and Human Development: An Empirical Study.

• Participated in courses in economics and political science fields at the department of economics, University of Essex in February and March 2021: Exploring economics in the current climate: Economic inequality, macroeconomics and covid, experiments in economic behaviour, perspectives on Fintech and digital economy, and development and labour economics. • Legacies of conflict: Britain, United States and Russia, the Russian civil war and its long-term impacts, the second world war: the bombers' war and its legacies, and the United States and the Vietnam war: lessons, legacies and lies.

• Involved in 13 workshops and courses through 2012 till 2021 as skills of effective teaching, communication skills, research doing and ethics, effective presentation skills, managing time and meetings, students' evaluation schemes, managing research teams, quality criteria of teaching, interactive learning, problem solving and taking decisions, critical thinking, basics of blended learning, international publication, at Faculty and Leadership Development Center (FLDC), CU.

• Involved in Fundamentals of Digital Transformation Course in February 2022, covering 7 modules: Fundamentals of IT, word processing, presentations, spreadsheets, fundamentals of database, introduction to computer networks, and mobile applications, at FLDC, CU.

• Involved in King's College London (KCL) learning and teaching programme, Modern Language Centre – KCL, July 2024.

• Involved in Cairo University Workshop "Marketing innovative ideas from the laboratory to the labor market", Technology Innovation Commercialization Office (TICO), CU, July 2024.

Employment and work experience:

• 2012-2015: Teaching assistant, economics department, FEPS, CU.

• 2016-2022: Assistant lecturer, economics department, FEPS, CU

• 2023-present:
  *Assistant professor of economics, economics department, FEPS, CU.

• 2018-present: Academic seminar coordinator (PhD and Masters theses), FEPS, CU.

• Taught courses: Macroeconomic principles, Digital Economy, Behavioural Economics, Mathematical Economics, Selected topics in economics, International Economics, Econometrics, Quantitative methods, Readings in Economics, Political Economy, and Feasibility Study and project evaluation.

Publications:

*Abdelghaffar, Radwa & Emam, Hebatalla & Samak, Nagwa. (2023). Financial inclusion and human development: is there a nexus?. Journal of Humanities and Applied Social Sciences. 5. 10.1108/JHASS-11-2021-0178.

Key skills:

 • Economics researcher in fields of macroeconomics, econometrics, financial economics, human development, and digital economy and artificial intelligence.

• Skilled communicator and able to deliver the explanation in various ways.

• Computer skills: Proficient user of MSoffice. Statistical Software Package as E-views, and Matlab.